Professionalization of Clinical Ethics ?

My plea:

Clinical Ethics Support in Switzerland is not professionalized enough. There is hardly no training available for those health care professionals who wish to 'professionally' engage in Clinical Ethics (for example as an active member of a Clinical Ethics Committee).

However:

Clinical Ethics can help (and that can be even fun!) to enrich the complex 'action-taking and decision-making' procedures of medicine by reflecting upon the values (at stake).

Imagine ...

New idea :

“Lets set up a new psychology committee?”

Your boss maybe:

“Well, do you have a professional background in Psychology ?”

So, why does that work with

Ethics

(as discipline)

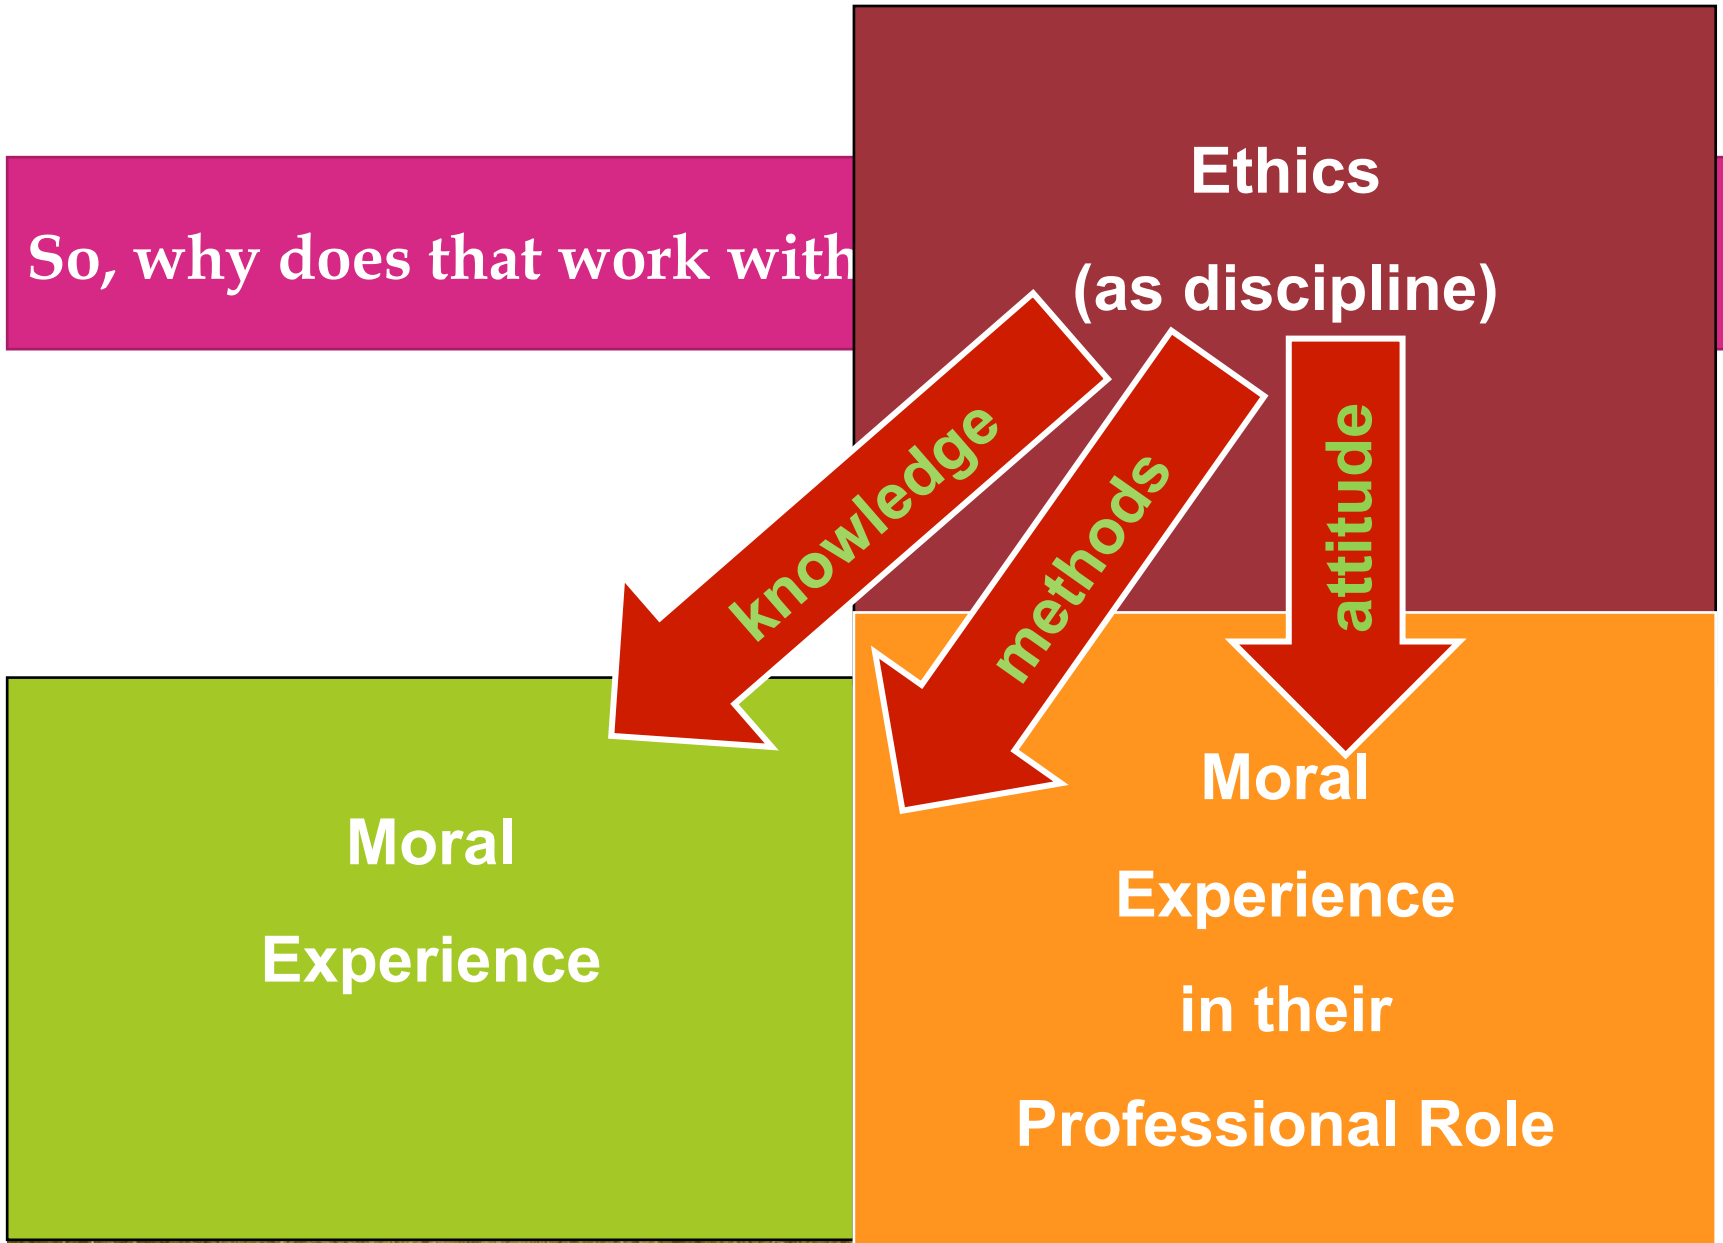

knowledge

methods
